Main Street Iowa visits Ames to lead the way

By JENNIFER DRYDEN

Main Street Iowa was in Ames June 12 to present its expectations to the Main Street board members, business owners and public now that Ames has been selected a Main Street Iowa community. The goal is set high to improve and help advance Ames' downtown area.

Volunteer committees are being formed for the four areas that Main Street Iowa requires to improve and lift the face of downtown communities. It's called a "Four-Point Approach" and includes organization, business improvement, design and promotion.

"(Committees) have been running, but they will be tightened up as we go," said Jayne McGuire, director of the Main Street Cultural District in Ames.

Volunteers and their voices are a big part of how downtown will be revitalized. Darlene Strachan, assistant state coordinator for Main Street Iowa, said most main streets are not run on paid positions but volunteer hours.

"We need to hear from you," Strachan said pointing to the 50 plus people in attendance in the Octagon Center gallery. "It's not going to be the program director, it's not going to be the

"We need to hear from you. It's not going to be the program director, it's not going to be the Board President Tim (Coble), Jayne and me telling you what to do. It's going to be the community that decides what you need for your downtown."

Darlene Strachan

Board President Tim (Coble), Jayne and me telling you what to do. It's going to be the community that decides what you need for your downtown."

At the first meeting as members, Jane Seaton, state coordinator of Main Street Iowa, said the road would be long but worth it. A successful downtown, she said, will require muscle, money and mouths.

Seaton said she has faith in Ames, not only for Ames' potential at preserving history, but for McGuire's experience with Main Street Iowa while directing in Le Mars after it became a Main Street Iowa community in 1995.

"She is already a certified Main Street District Manager, putting (Ames) ahead of many other communities," Seaton said about McGuire.

Out of a possible 400 points, Ames scored a 319.36 during the application process. Seaton said she was impressed with how active the city government was with providing financial and volunteer support. One of the many goals Ames wants to accomplish is converting more upstairs spaces into residential apartments, at the same time preserving the unique historic look.

This is only the beginning of a long journey. Many meetings, workshops and visits from Main Street Iowa will be held in the coming months.

YOUNG PROFESSIONALS OF AMES, JULY NEWS

June: a busy month for YPA

YPA had a calendar chock full of Get Active programming, volunteer opportunities, a Lunch & Learn highlighting the Ames economy, and a celebration of YPA with the “Old School Summer Send-Off” all-member social & recruitment event.

YPs Get Active

YPA’s 2009 initiative to get active has taken off and continues to be a strong program for YPA members to exercise, stay fit and network with their team members all at the same time! A team of 12 YPA members has been improving its game since day one of the City of Ames Parks & Recreation summer softball leagues. While they hope to continue to improve on their record of 1-9, they are enjoying the friendship and conversations that each team member brings to the diamond each week.

“Some people network over golf; we network on the softball diamond!” said Travis Kramer, YPA Board member & softball team captain. The sand volleyball league, also through Parks & Recreation, started up the first week of June, and a team of nine YPs have begun to serve, set and spike. Linda Garbisch, YPA member and social committee member who has played in both winter and summer leagues, said the team is meshing well and has gotten off to a good start with a few wins.

“Being on the volleyball teams has been a great way to be active and meet other YPA members at the same time. We get to laugh and have a good time while getting to know each other,” Garbisch said.

Ryan Lynch, another YPA member and social committee member, is also making headway with his newly formed disc golf league. Every Wednesday through August, YPA members and guests are invited to play at Gateway Hills Park. Shotgun start is at 6 p.m.

YPs give back to the community with a summer send-off old-school style

Members of YPA continue to tirelessly donate their time and energy to community activities. Each week in June and July, two YPs staff the Main Street Cultural District’s Tune into Main Street kid’s activities booth. There are bubbles, hula-hoops, sidewalk chalk, paint and other activities for the kids to enjoy while listening to music in the park. There are still spots available, so if you are a member of YPA and are interested in volunteering, visit www.ypames.com and click on “Volunteer Opportunities” to sign up to volunteer.

Adopt-a-Garden

Recently, a small group of YPs planted an Adopt-a-Garden at Moore Park on Beach Avenue in Ames. The group will weed and maintain the garden throughout the summer and will re-plant this fall with more cardinal and gold just in time for football season.

Constructing a play structure

In recent years, YPA members have both taken down and constructed play structures at Inis Grove Park.

They continued the tradition on June 18, prior to the “Old School Summer Send-Off” All-Member Social & Recruitment Event, by gathering about a dozen YPs with tools in hand to construct a play structure at Emma McCarthy Lee Park.

Following the building of the play structure, the volunteers joined with other YPA members and guests to gather at the annual all-member social and recruitment event: “Old School Summer Send-Off.” YPs enjoyed Old School trivia, games and even a rousing game of kick-ball. Many prizes were raffled off, and new members were welcomed into the organization that night.

YPs receive an Ames economy 101 lesson from Ames Economic Development Commission

Dan Culhane and Ron Hallenbeck, both with the Ames Economic Development Commission, gave insight into how the Ames economy is doing locally and what they are doing to attract business to the community. In a time when one would imagine business to be slow, the AEDC continues to see good progress in their recruitment efforts of businesses locating to Ames.

Annual YPA Golf Outing is Friday, Aug. 7

The fourth-annual YPA golf outing will be during the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 7, at Ames Golf & Country Club. By registering online at www.ypames.com for this four-person, best-shot outing, each golfer will be automatically entered into a drawing* for two tickets, generously donated by the Iowa State University Athletic Department, to the Iowa State-Army football game on Saturday, Sept. 26, at Jack Trice Stadium. The drawing will be held at the conclusion of the golf outing during the awards presentation at approximately 6 p.m.

Sponsor a hole at the outing and get your business in front of nearly 75 young professionals. This is a great opportunity for successful local businesses such as yours to gain access to an active and dynamic demographic! Contact Dan Nutini, membership & social chair, at dnutini@rmharchitects.com or (515) 292-6075 for more information. See you on the course in August!

*Note: This drawing is for YPA members with active registrations only. All members registered for the event previously have been entered in the drawing as well. Golfing non-members who join YPA the day of the event or before will also be entered into the drawing.
